Gain valuable campaign skills interning with Oregon GMO Right to Know! Work to label GMOs in Oregon this November!

About Us:

Oregon Right to Know is a non-partisan grassroots campaign to label foods in grocery stores produced using genetically modified organisms or GMOs. GMO food is patented because it has been engineered in a laboratory.

The vast majority of Oregonians want labels on GMOs because we have a right to know what’s in our food so we can make our own decisions about what we eat and feed our families.

We’re excited to announce that we’re seeking a dedicated and motivated Fundraising Intern beginning immediately.

What we’re looking for:

Interning with the Oregon Right to Know campaign is an excellent way to get hands-on campaign experience in Oregon in the world of ballot measures and to better understand the way electoral politics works and how it’s funded. We currently have three internship positions available: Finance Internship, Field Internship, and Communications Internship.

Upon successful completion of the internship and a demonstration of growth and gained knowledge, interns will receive letters of recommendation, references, and resume reviews.

Finance Internship

Our Finance interns will gain valuable skills and insight into fundraising, donor cultivation, event planning, and database management.

The Finance intern will work closely with the Finance Director on projects including:

- Plan, promote, and execute house parties and events
- Donor research and prospecting
- Data entry and integrity in two well-known and widely used databases: NGP & the VAN
- Execution of the plan
- Preparation of call time materials
Field Internship

Our Field interns will gain valuable skills and insight into working with volunteers, petition gathering, GOTV efforts and database management.

The Field intern will work closely with the Deputy Field Director on projects including:

- Plan, promote, and execute signature gathering, voter ID and GOTV efforts
- Volunteer Recruitment
- Data entry and integrity in a well-known and widely used database: the VAN
- Execution of the plan
- Preparation of materials for events

Communications Internship

Our Communications interns will gain valuable insight to develop campaigning, communications and networking skills.

The Communications intern will work closely with the Communications Director on projects including:

- Plan, promote and execute email and social media plans
- Writing web stories and reports on campaign actions
- Responding to requests from members of the public for information and materials
- Researching and updating a database of media contact information

In addition to the above, Oregon Right to Know interns are also expected to:

- Assist and attend staff meetings, trainings, service events and other projects as needed
- Perform basic office functions such as answering phones, responding to messages, and data entry
- Participate in grassroots efforts, such as phone banks, canvasses, and voter registration drives
Details:

This internship will last 3-6 months, according to each applicant’s schedule. Interns are expected to commit 12-20 hours per week with occasional evenings and weekends.

The ideal applicant will have the following:

- Previous involvement in a campaign
- A passion for politics
- Ability to work independently
- Self-starter
- Commitment to maintaining standards of confidentiality and discretion
- Ability to be fluid with job duties and responsibilities
- A can-do attitude and enthusiasm for the task at hand
- Familiarity with Microsoft Word and Excel
- Comfort with making calls
- An interest in learning about political organizing

To Apply:

Please email a one-page resume, one-page cover letter, and three professional references to Deputy Field Director, Ashlie Behm info@oregonrighttoknow.org. The OR-R2K campaign is an equal opportunity employer and especially encourages those with diverse backgrounds to apply. Those seeking college credit through their college or university must get pre-approval from their department advisor.
